WHERE THEY PLAY TO-DAY. Richmond at Petersburg. Norfolk at Roanoke. Lynchburg at Danville.

Petersburg, Va., August S.—Petersburg cantered away from the Colts in grand style this afterneon, and the 600 loyal rooters who went out to the park in spite of threatening weather, were in the box for their respective teams and Welsher was at his best, while salve was very wild, his bases on balls being responsible for two of the runs made by Petersburg. Only two singles were made off Welsher, while two-baggers and three singles were made off Salve.

The game opened badly for the Colts in the first inning, when Booe, first man up, singled, and came home on Bunting's wild throw to first to catch McFarland. McFarland going to second, and scoring on Kirkpatrick's two bagger.

Richmond made her only run in the end, and scoring on Kirkpatrick's two bagger.

Richmond made her only run in the second, when Titman got a base on balls, and scored on Smith's wild throw to first of Bunting's bunt.

In the third, Petersburg added two more runs to her score on two bases on balls. Putman being hit by a pitched ball, Bowen's two-bagger and Clunk's single. One of inese runs was forced in by Salve giving Toner his base on balls, when the bases were filled with runners.

balls, when the bases were many runners.

The fielding of both teams was fast. A sensational double play by McFarland and Smith. Putnan's work at first and Salve's catching base runners napping were the features. The score:

Petersburg.

MAY GO BACK IN BOX.

Bresnahan Thinks Seriously of Again Bresnaban Tbinks Seriously of Again Becoming a pitcher.

New York, August 8.—Roger Bresnahan, catcher and manager of the St. Louis National League baseball team, was quoted to-day by his friends as thinking seriously of going back to pitching, if things fall to break better for his staff of twirlers. Bresnahan broke into the game as a pitcher for Washington, and it was at Baltimore that McGraw turned him into a catcher.

Only last week in Brooklyn, Bresnahan startled the fans by stepping into the box at a critical moment.
